A) ACADEMIC:

Participation of stakeholders is more significant in making the designed programme more successful, especially student's attendance and participation. Hence, the first and foremost concern is to see that students should attend the classes and participate in academic and other activities. The following steps are designed to ensure the above:

- Students should wear chest cards while entering the college campus.
- Attendance records of all the students should be maintained by the concerned teachers of their respective subjects.
- Attendance Committee should collect Reports on shortage of attendance after the completion of every two months from concerned teachers.
- List of students whose attendance are very poor, should be reported to the Local Guardians of concerned classes by the attendance committee.
- Meeting of the parents of absentee students should be convened by the Local Guardians of concerned classes periodically, to intimate to the parents about the irregularity of their wards.
- After collecting the views from the parents about the reasons and causes for irregularity of their wards, steps should be taken to make the students attend the classes regularly. This is not only to compensate the loss of attendance but also to save them from lagging behind in studies.
- The students who appear for the CPT, PE-II, C.S. and entrance tests of other professional courses need to be encouraged. The college has adopted the system of encouraging such students through proper guidance and Counseling.
- At the end of each Semester academic revision of syllabus in every subject is carried out. This helps the students to get a fairly better idea about the subject besides enabling them to do well in the exam.

A) Learning:

The following programmes are designed to initiate the habit of learning and inculcate a sense of inquisitiveness and develop a positive mind-set and competitive spirit among the students.

1. Developing presentation and communication skills:

There is a strong need to develop Presentation Skills among the students in the context of present day competitive scenario. Unless the students are trained in communication and soft skills, they can not fare better in the interviews/selections and make an entry into the employment world. So, to develop these skills in them, students are made to give talks on the lessons or topics covered. Here, the students are made to enact the role of the teacher. It helps them not only understand the subject properly but also to overcome stage-fear and lack of confidence in themselves.

2. Conduct of Seminars.

Seminars are conducted on a regular basis. Students are made to present seminars not only on the topics covered but also on those yet to be covered. This helps them to refer to the relevant sources of material, collection of apt points and preparing a paper by giving a proper shape to the topic. Teachers also help them in collecting the material and preparing the paper. Team spirit, mutual understanding, self-confidence, exchange of ideas, over-coming stage fear and lack of courage are some of the advantages of holding these seminars. Use of O.H.P, L.C.D is encouraged.

3. Symposia.

Symposia on current topics would be held at least once in three months for each class. The college has a very strong alumni force which is always keen in helping the present batch of students. These past students, who have flourished in their life as entrepreneurs, industrialists, businessmen and business magnates are invited to share their experiences with our students. Authorities from Income Tax Department, Banks, Factories, Industries, business enterprises and merchants are invited to interact with our students. This programme helps our students to have a clear idea about the practical world, the keen competition that prevails there and the need to develop ability and skill to face the challenges they have to meet soon after they complete their graduation.

4. Group discussions and Mock Interviews:

Group discussions and Mock interviews are also held on a regular feature. Batches consisting of 8-10 students are formed to have group discussion on given topics. Students are made to learn the etiquettes and manners needed for these occasions, techniques of approaching the authorities, the need to coordinate in a group and lead the group to positive conclusiveness. Training on interview techniques by conducting a mock one, gives adequate knowledge and information to the students on this subject. The training given here has proved to be helpful to our students in their practical life.

5. Debate and Elocution Competitions:

The burning issues of the Society, Industry, and Stock Market, banking sector, trade and commerce at both national and international levels are chosen as the topics for debate and elocution. This creates awareness in the students about some of the important current issues with which they have to deal with sooner or later.

6. Visit to Industries, Banks, Government offices:

Visits to industries, banks and government offices are arranged from time to time. Students are sent to these sites to collect first-hand information about the working system of these units. If the venue to be the one that belongs to an alumina of our college, even free transport is provided. Students gain a lot of practical knowledge by such visits.

7. Opportunities for students to develop and exhibit their talent:

Several opportunities are provided to the students to develop their speaking and communication skills. Competitions in singing, rangoli, essay writing, quiz, numismatics etc. are conducted, giving a wide scope to the students to develop and exhibit their talent.

- i) Important
- ii) Most important
- iii) Casual and informative

In other words it is in the pattern of:

- a) Must Know
- b) Desirable to know
- c) Good if it is known

3. Seminars, symposia, group-discussions, role-play, personality development training are a part of the whole Teaching programme and they are conducted intermittently without affecting the coverage of the prescribed syllabus.

4. Small Tests as per the guidelines of the University are also conducted; the answer papers evaluated within a week's time and the marks are intimated to the students. The answer scripts are shown to the students and any doubts on the subject, model answers to the questions and the care to be taken by them for scoring high marks are explained to them. Assignments which are also in accordance with the guidelines of the university are given to the students. The technique of writing ideal answers such as its size, presentation style, content and the language are explained to them so that they will fare better in the end exam.

5. A broad-hint about almost all the important events proposed to be carried out during the year such as functions, tests, visit of VIPs to the college, sports activities etc. are mentioned in the Calendar of Events which is printed in the Prospectus of the college, a copy of which is made available to the students at the beginning of the year.

2. Examination Committee is formed by the college to announce the schedule of periodical tests.

3. Evaluation of Internal Assessment Journals is made and the results are announced on the days mentioned in calendar of events.

4. After evaluation of Internal Assessment Journals by the concerned teachers, they are expected to redistribute them. Marks are awarded along with a remark on the poor performance made by the students. Teachers should justify the allotted marks during discussions in the class room.

5. Teachers should keep the records of performance of the students in tests, seminar etc. This record should be made available in the meeting of parents.
6. Heads of different Departments should convene Departmental meetings, every month and also after the completion of every test to discuss the performance of students.
7. Feedback should be obtained from the students after completion of every topic. This feedback covers information regarding punctuality, efficiency, commitment of teacher etc.
8. The feedback results should be discussed in the Departmental meetings. This system of feedback is used in a positive approach to improve the teaching process.
9. Circulation of good answer scripts should be made, as model answer scripts, in the class to enable other students to improve their style of answering.

E) Value Addition:

Changing market trends, improvements in technology, presence of keen competition etc., stress the need for practical knowledge.
